I talked to the patient and informed her regarding the findings of the MR angiography. I had requested the imaging facility to have an official read since I did see some abnormality suggesting of small intracranial aneurysms. Unfortunately we do not have a vascular and neurovascular full axis locally here I have informed the patient that she should take an appointment to see a vascular neurosurgeon in Southern California either in UCLA, USC Cedars-Sinai are normal in the hospital. In case of acute event she is been started go to urgent care and or emergency room if not follow-up with her vascular neurosurgery for evaluation of a cerebral aneurysm patient understand the plan will follow recommendations.
